Accolades for the SCLLA Blawg

The May 2004 issue of the AALL Spectrum, the newsletter of the American Association of Law Librarians, in an article titled "Blogs in Law Libraries" contains the following quote:

One of the best law library blog examples comes from the Stark County Law Library in Ohio (http://temp.starklawlibrary.org/blog). The blog, managed by Nancy Stinson and Kendel Croston, is an excellent illustration of a newsletter from the legal community. From information about software programs, such as Time Matters and Amicus Attorney, to information about ABA events, this blog promises to capture your attention. The information provided is up-to-date and timely.¹

The EDDix 50 (a listing of their fifty top legal weblogs) included our Stark County Law Library Blawg with the following comment: "Wow do we like this bLAWg! Simple, straightforward aggregation of articles relating to law, legal tech, pointers to resources."²

If you are not one of our blawg's regular readers, now would be a good time to see what you are missing!!

Custody & Support: Credit Against Arrearages

Should a non-custodial parent who has been ordered to pay child support be allowed credit against child support arrearages for the time that one or more of the parties' children lives with the parent, with the custodial parent's consent?

This annotation (120 A.L.R.
5th 229) collects and discusses these cases because some courts have held that the parents do not have the authority to change their child support obligations by agreement without the support of the court.³
